VOLUME TWENTY-FIVE

EDITED BY THE CLASS OF NINETEEN THIRTY-FOUR

To
STERLING L. WILLIAMS
Our Loyal Friend and Teacher
We the Class of Nineteen Hundred Thirty-four Affectionately Dedicate this Book

FOREWORD

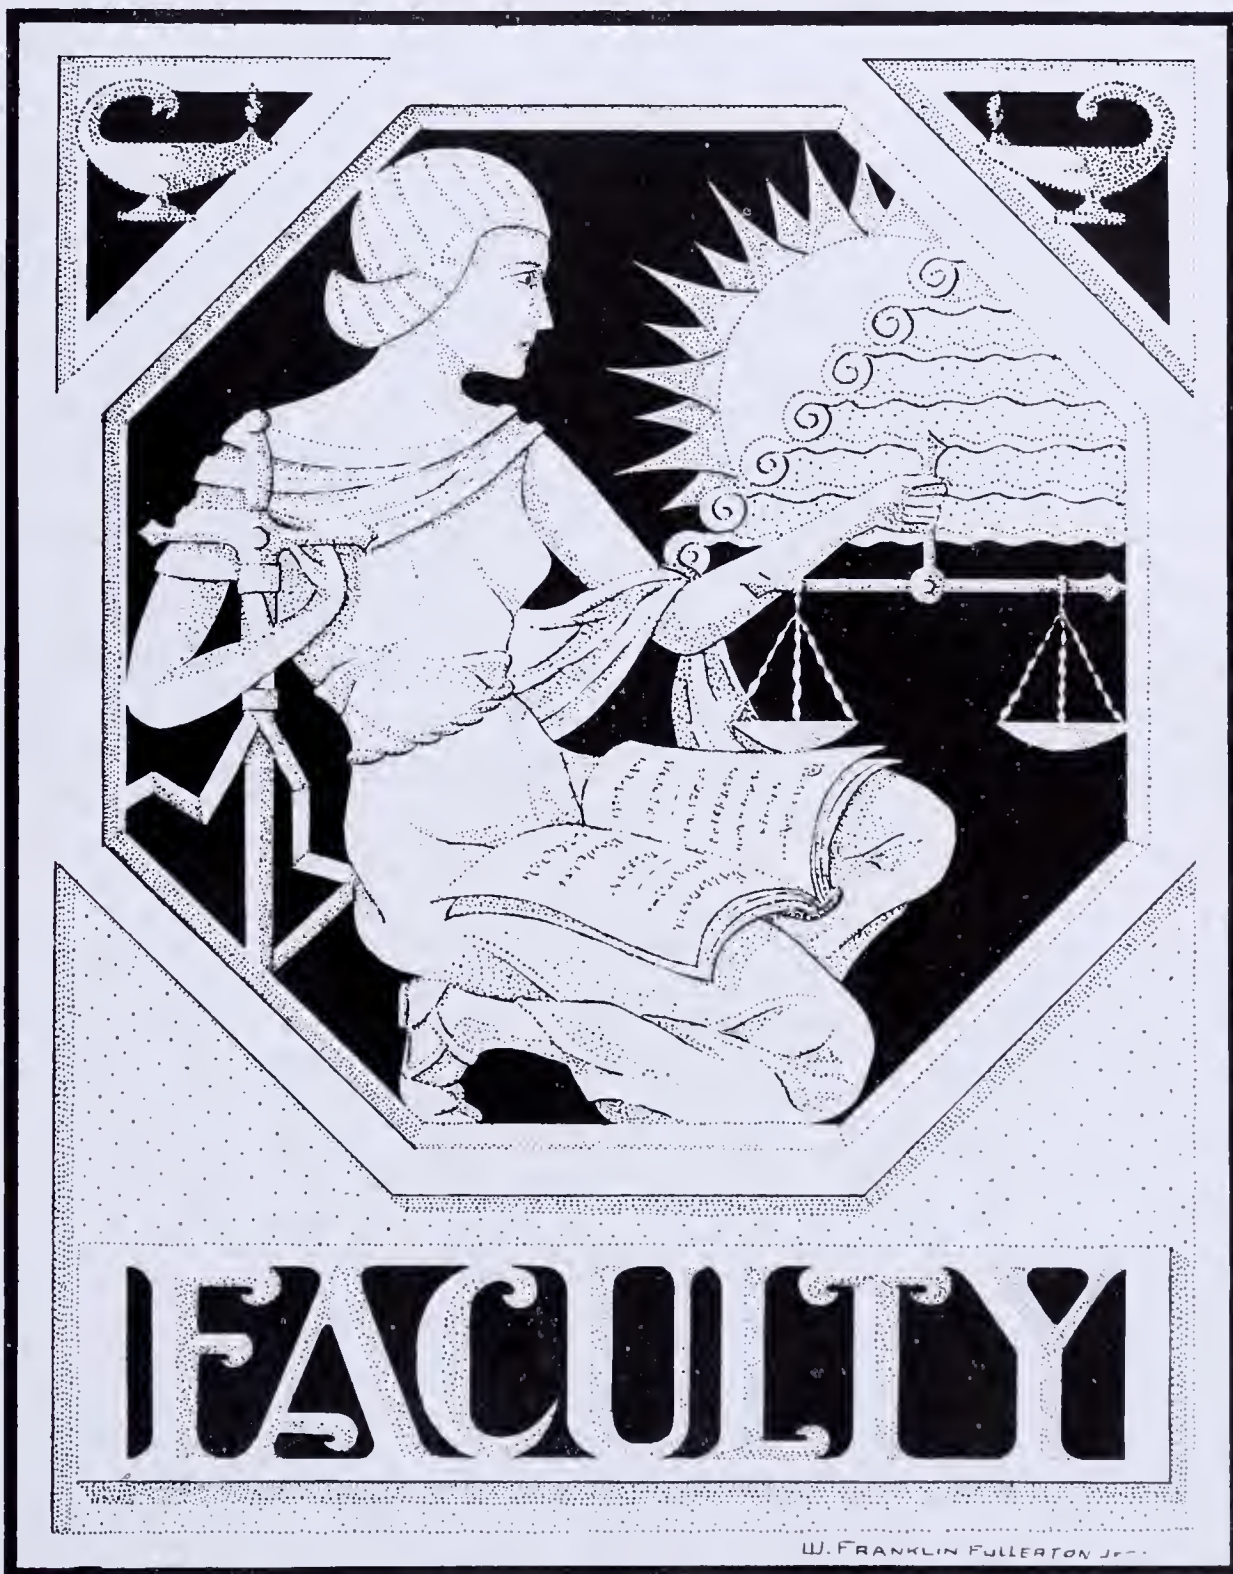

THE Class of 1934 presents as the culmination of its career, the twenty-fifth edition of the "Newtonian." It is to the loyal co-operation of the students and the faculty advisers that the success of this book is due.

It is the sincere desire that this "Silver Newtonian" be a faithful record and a worthy souvenir of the Class of 1934.

THE EDITOR.

PAUL E. ELICKER
Principal, Newton High School

"The Three Musketeers"

IN November the faculty presented the well-known play, "The Three Musketeers," coached by Mrs. Bemis. The leading roles were played by Raymond Green as D'Artagnan; Carl Swan, John Lund, and Paul E. Elicker as the three musketeers; Roberta Miller as Gabrielle; Roxanna Holden as the Queen; and Francis Foster as the King. Edith Newcomb made an admirable villainess, while T. Jerome Cutting played the role of the villain, Cardinal Richelieu. Walter Taylor, Carl Birmingham, Lester Williams, Charles Peterson, and Noel Cottrell were a fine supporting cast. One of the highlights of the production was a realistic fight staged between the Cardinal's guards and the King's musketeers.

Act IV of "The Follies of 1934"

(With a review of Acts I, II, and III)

THE first time that we of the class of 1934 looked across the footlights on the Newton stage, four years ago, we were both dazzled by the glare, and bewildered at not being able to penetrate the darkness of the auditorium. But we banded together under Joseph Clement as stage director, with James Hunter, Theodore Cobb, and George Stone assisting and on the whole, worked out very successfully the scenes in Act I of the "Follies of 1934."

The second act of the Follies, presented the following year, was, as we had hoped, quite an improvement over the first because of the enlarging of our cast by Junior High graduates and because of the advantageous application of our former experiences. Our position as Sophomores compelled us to inspire the incoming Freshmen. This year Jean Harvey directed our productions, assisted by Paul Felt, James Hunter, and Marjorie Tylee. One of the first scenes in Act II was the Freshman-Sophomore Prize-Speaking Contest whose honors fell to Louise Kerr and Paul Felt. Other scenes were based on participation in athletics and clubs where our ability was duly recognized.

Act III of any drama is so likely to conceal the climax in its midst, to excite us all with its sudden appearance, that we Juniors had to be alert to our actions lest we should interrupt our drama inopportunately, turning the forthcoming progress into falling action. Being upperclassmen, too, held much responsibility. Now our acting was expected to be natural, almost professional, and our ability increased to outstanding, a state of affairs much more difficult to attain than when we were not expected to "bring the house down." But Charles Flagg with his staff made up of Mary Jane Hunter, James Naylor, and Margery Tylee proved truly capable directors. What more could one wish? In fact, with Alice Mansfield starring in the Drama Club production, "The Royal Family of Broadway," and four other juniors in the cast we felt justifiably proud of our ability. When, just before the third curtain fell, our girls carried off the cup at the Gym Meet we knew our attempts had been successful.

It is truly in the fourth act that the dramatic skill of our company of '34 has been revealed. The climax to the life of the "Follies" is yet to be discovered, but the higher peaks are already becoming noticeable. As experienced actors we have learned to feel our audiences at Newton even though we still may not see them clearly. Their appreciation has seen its rewards.

To direct our class through one of the greatest years of our life we chose Theodore Johnson, president; Claude Frazier, boys' vice-president; Dorothy Jones, girls' vice-president; Frank McCarthy, treasurer; Mary Jane Hunter, secretary; and to lead the Associates, Alice Mansfield. From members of our company we chose the cast for the Senior Play, "Merely Mary Ann," in which Ann Newdick and John Wheldon took the leads. Later on other members were in demand for the Drama Club Play, "Three Faces East," in which Alice Mansfield again starred. A third scene from this great act was the Junior Senior Prize-Speaking Contest, from which Roland Jones carried off the boy's first prize. In this same scene, the winner of the Essay and Verse contests were announced. Vincent Maloney won the essay cup, with Neal Railsback second, while Joan Drew received the poetry cup, with Charlotte Paul taking the second award. The Senior Talent Assembly, portraying try-outs for a musical comedy, and the induction of many from our class into the National Honor Society under the presidency of Janet Brown added inspiring scenes to the act, while the vigorous pursuance of girls' and boys' athletics furnished lighter touches. All through the year we have sought certain publicity from Fabian Bachrach, editor-in-chief of the Newtonite, and soon our memories will be filled with the thoughts of Charlotte Paul, who has been the leader of the "Silver Newtonian."

The act is drawing near the close. Soon in the last scene of all, we of 1934 shall be standing on the top-most of the marble steps — great stepping stones that we have built back-stage at Newton — waiting for the marble doors before us to open to the world. When the iron bolts slide back we shall turn again to survey our handiwork; we shall gaze beyond the footlights, penetrating the darkness with thoughts of gratitude and exultation. Then we shall pass through the doorway; the doors will swing together behind us; the curtain will drop before the stage. Book I will be finished; Book II still lies ahead. Still always shall we remember the stage door back to Newton.

"Merely Mary Ann"

AS their annual play this year, the Senior Class presented a typical Cinderella romance, "Merely Mary Ann," coached by Miss Helen E. Nute. The play had to do with a lodging-house slavey who inherited a fortune, and almost lost her friendship with her boarding-house acquaintance, a young composer. Mary Ann, the slavey, was admirably portrayed by Ann Newdick, with John Whelden playing opposite her as the struggling musician. Betty-Jane Dockstader took the part of Mrs. Leadbatter, the lodging housekeeper, while her daughter Rosie, was played by Hope Baker. Clifford Craig had the role of Peter, Launcelot's friend, and composer of the play's theme song, "Kiss Me Good Night." Other parts were taken by Thomas Fitzgerald, Jonathan Roehrig, Virginia Woods, Claudia Bassett, Julius Kovitz, Roland Jones, Betty Bolinger, William Spurrier, and Austin Connelly. Luigi Mingace was the impersonator of Dick, the canary.

The committee which chose the play was composed of Helen O'Connor, Louise Kerr, Theodore Cobb, John Connelly, Dorothy Hurd, Constance Wood and James Naylor.

History of the Junior Class

THE class of '35 undertook the duties of the junior year with none of the hesitation or bewilderment which marked their entrance to Newton High School. Sophomore officers then elected were Clarke Case, president; Barbara Kimball, vice-president; Maurice White, secretary; and Sydney Brown, treasurer.

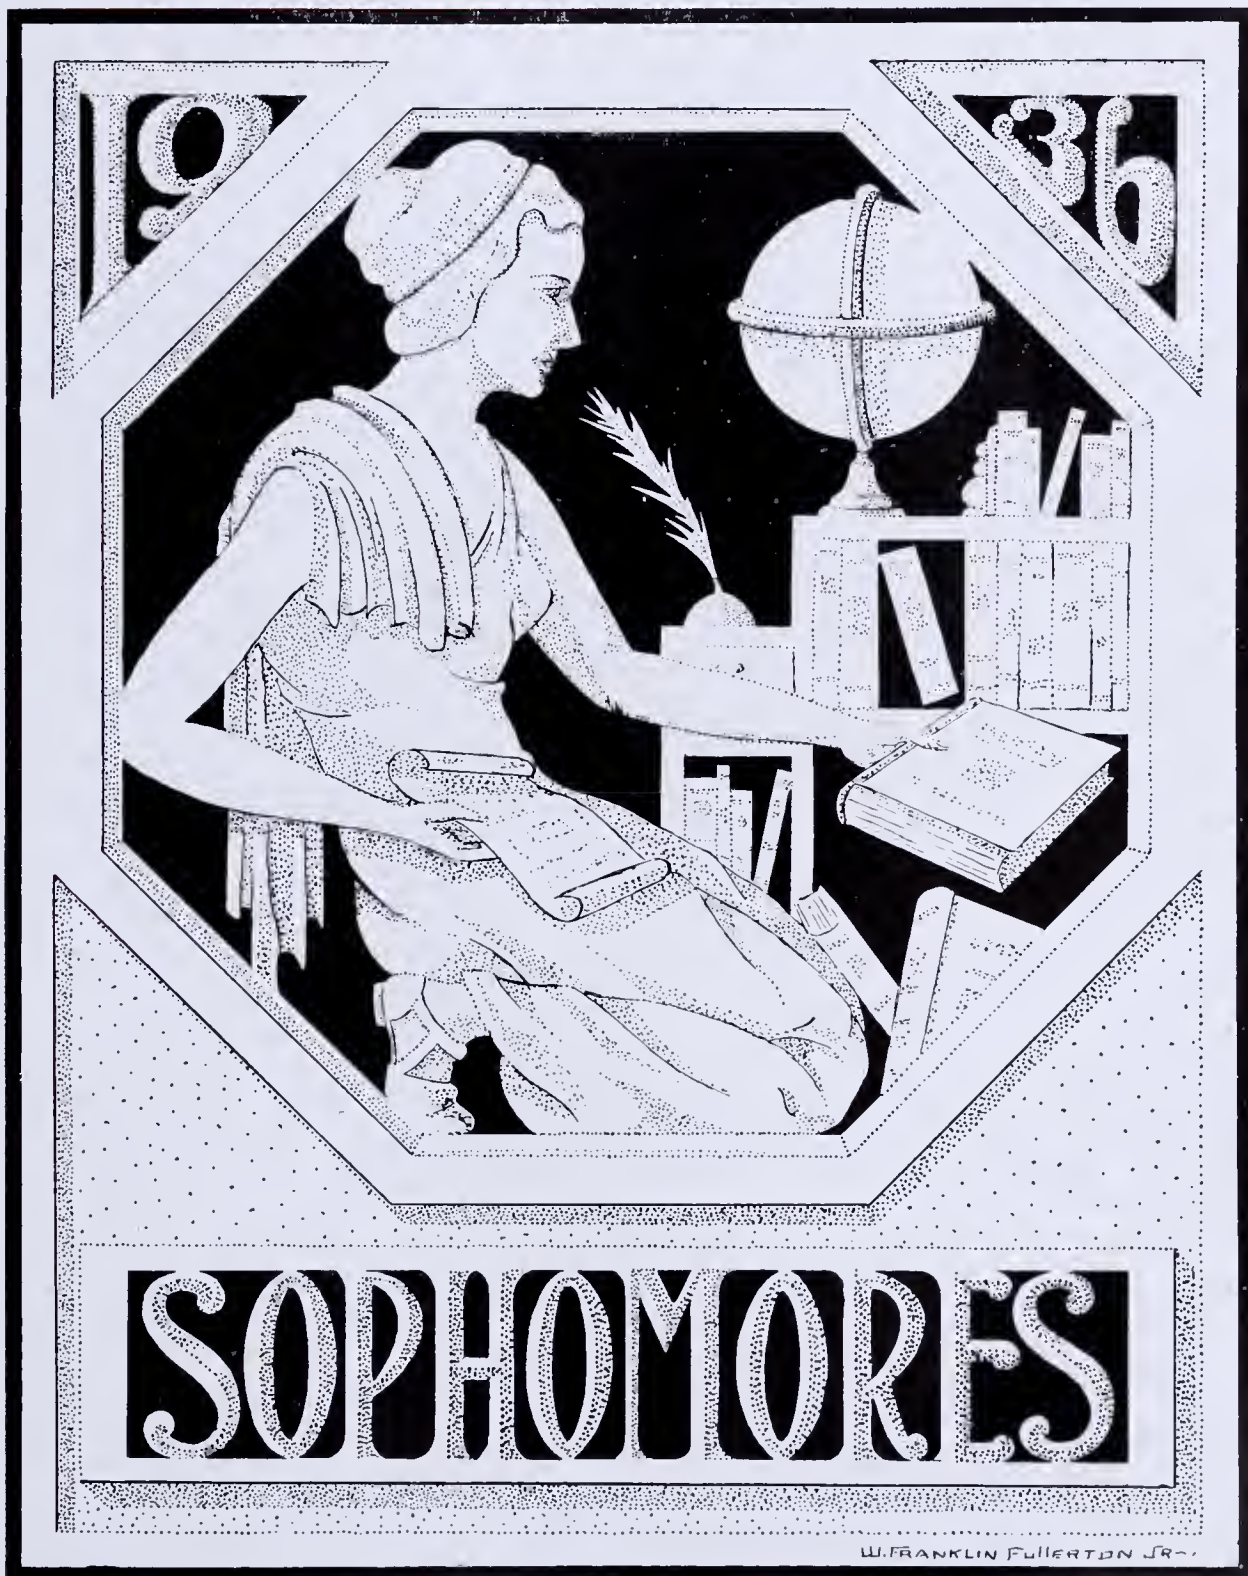

Prompt election of officers, the appointment of an executive committee, and the selection of representatives of the Junior Class for the legislature were the first steps of an eventful year. As president, Caleb Roehrig was chosen; vice-president, Barbara Kimball; secretary, Maurice White; and treasurer, Charles Doten. Through the representatives of the legislature the members of the class were informed of new rules and sent suggestions to that body for consideration.

On Thursdays the various clubs met with equal enthusiasm, whether preparing drama, discussion, debate, or other forms of entertainment. At many of these meetings excellent speakers were heard. The Drama Club presented "Three Faces East" with Clarke Case portraying a difficult character in the leading role. At the annual prize-speaking contest, Betty George won the English Club prize with her rendition of Tennyson's "Guinevere." Juniors took part in debates held by the Boys' and Girls' Debating Clubs.

In the fall the class held its annual dance, the Feminine Follies. In athletics, increasing opportunities have been made for Juniors because of a larger number of teams and additional coaches. On all teams the Junior class has been well represented, and has had Bill Spilman and Bullet Byrnes as three-letter men.

The completion of the year's sports marked the end of a successful series of athletic contests. The adoption of the farm system in baseball by Coach Jones has provided a greater chance for those who could not obtain a varsity berth in their Junior year.

The class of '35 looks forward to its Senior year with hopes of continued successful participation in school affairs.

Sophomore Class History 1933-1934 — A Log

SEPTEMBER 11. A ship sailed into building 3 — the enchanted ship of the Sophomore Class with 800 odd to man the ship. The first day found the ship floundering on the sea of misfortunes — forgetting books and lunches, getting locked out of the buildings, looking for rooms.

November 1. Neal O'Hara, the Herald-Traveler humorist, was the guest at a Sophomore assembly.

November 29. Doctor Armitage brought Dickens's characters to life for the Sophomores.

January 24. Sophomore election. Roy Merchant was chosen president; William Dimon, vice-president; Clara Schwab, secretary; and Barbara Emig, treasurer.

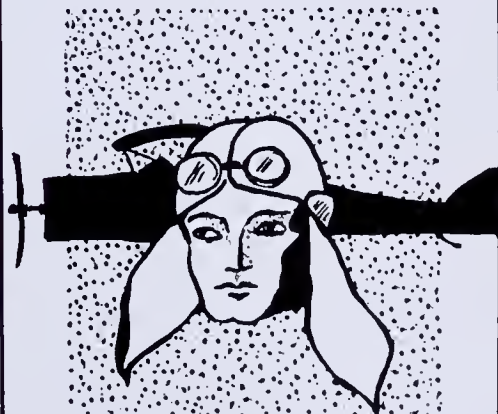

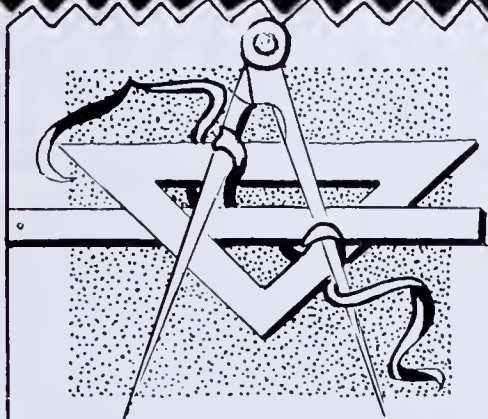

January 31. Prize-Speaking Contest. Helen Eyre won the girls' prize with "The Congo;" and of the boys, William Abrahams was the winner with Anthony's speech from "Julius Caesar."

February 9. Sophomore Dance — jolly shipmates; jolly time.

February 14. Assembly sponsored by the Neophytes. George Washington, impersonated by Laurance H. Hart was interviewed by Mrs. Hart who took the part of a newspaper reporter.

May 16. Neophyte play starring Albert Thomas, the president.

Newtonian Staff

THE Newtonian Staff is composed of students whose responsibilities are the planning, composition, and publication of the school's annual.

In presenting this, the twenty-fifth issue, the staff has endeavored to produce a history of Newton High School in which are embodied the achievements and activities of the past and former years.

The Associates

THE Associates is an organization representative of the entire student body. With the help of the faculty it directs, through the legislature, the activities of the school. It promotes and enacts such laws as are necessary for the advancement of the school.

It has been the custom for The Associates to take charge of the Christmas box, which, despite our financial difficulties, supplied a worthy amount this year to aid the needy.

Legislature

THE Newton High School Legislature, a representative body of the pupils, proposes and passes laws (subject to the approval of the Executive Council) governing school activities. This year the traffic and lunchroom conditions were improved and through the traffic commission, routes between buildings have been bettered, thus avoiding congestion. It has considered seriously the matter of eligibility for membership in clubs. The legislature is one of the most active organizations in the school.

The Executive Council

ACCORDING to the Constitution of the Newton High School, the Executive Council is composed of faculty supervisors and of a student representative from each board. This year the Executive Council is as follows:

Mr. Elicker	Principal
Miss Burdon	Junior Class Adviser
Miss White	Bursar
Miss Riley	Sophomore Class Adviser
Mr. Green	Secretary of Administrative Board
Mrs. Kuntz, Mary Waldron	Girls' Athletics
Mr. Wilson, Alfred Dickinson	Boys' Athletics
Mr. Kidger, Betty Everett	Civic Affairs
Miss Bigelow, Vaughn Shedd	Dramatics
Mr. Maxim, Lloyd Bergeson	Finance
Mr. Mergendahl, Linder Hamblen	Music
Mr. Thurber, Barbara Mildram	Publications
Miss South, Richard King	Social Affairs
David Eddy	Clerk of Associates

National Honor Society

President, JANET BROWN

Vice-President, JAMES NAYLOR

Secretary, ALFRED DICKINSON

Treasurer, DEBORAH YORK

Faculty Adviser, EDITH M. RIDEOUT

THE Newton chapter of the National Honor Society has now completed its eighth year. This society, selected from the upper twenty-five percent of the Junior and Senior classes, has no part in social functions, but offers its services to the school whenever desired. As its members are chosen by the faculty at the end of the third marking period, on the basis of character, leadership, service, and scholarship, its purpose is to offer recognition to those who best represent these ideals.

At the April Induction Ceremony, the purpose and symbol of the society were explained and the four qualities interpreted. After Mr. Elicker awarded gold pins to the incoming members, Dr. Samuel Lindsay spoke on "The Harvest of Dictators — a Challenge to Democracy."

The Newtonite

THIS year the twelfth volume of The Newtonite rewarded its loyal supporters, the students, with many interesting improvements and additions. The most striking of the changes was the increase in size of the paper while the price was reduced tentatively.

In addition to the regular news items and editorials, the readers were presented with four amusing columns. The first of these, "The Critic," concerned itself with observations on literature and the cinema, while "Nil Nisi Bonum" furnished the students with numerous witticisms. Next came "'Ello 'Awkeye" which discussed the social life and hobbies of the members of Newton High School. To complete the variety, the sporting life was represented by a feature entitled "Shedd Shingles."

The staff, headed by Fabian Bachrach as editor-in-chief, consisted of Jean Harvey and Jane Hayden, news editors; Molly MacKnight and Réjane Harvey, copy editors; Jane Tobin, feature editor; Hugh Kennison, editorials; Edwin Robins, sports editor; Joan Drew, literary editor; Deborah Wing, exchange; and Luciano Mancini, business manager. The above were capably assisted by a number of reporters.

The Orange Book

Editor-in-Chief, RICHARD MYRICK

Business Manager, NORMAN DUPEE

Faculty Adviser, CAROLINE M. DOONAN

THE Orange Book has issued another successful volume under the expert supervision of Miss Doonan, assisted by Miss Curtis. This handy little book is indispensable to sophomores and extremely valuable to upper-classmen, as it contains the Constitution of the Associates, all the rules and regulations of the school, and a complete description of every club, team, and social event. The 1933-34 Orange Book met with the approval of all because of its complete picture of the school. Much credit is due to the staff for their successful publication.

The English Club

President, JAMES NAYLOR

Vice-President, JEAN HARVEY

Secretary, VIRGINIA WOODS

Treasurer, ESTHER MERCHANT

UNDER the capable supervision of Miss Louise E. Richardson, the English Club completed its twenty-second year. The club secured several interesting speakers, including Noel G. Cottrell, Reverend Herbert Hitchen, Alice Dixon Bond, and Reverend George Parker. On April 25, the English Club presented Mr. John K. C. Mackaness, the eminent English lecturer, to an assembly of Juniors and Seniors. Among other interesting programs, were a Home Talent meeting, a play, and a picnic.

This year, as in the past, the English Club sponsored the Prize-Speaking Contest, with Roland Jones, '34, and Betty George, '35, winning the laurels. A one-act play entitled "The Ghost Story" was presented by the club on the same program. The winners of the Essay and Verse Contests were Vincent Maloney, '34, and Joan Drew, '34, respectively.

This year the club has expended considerable money for books, some of which were sent to a needy southern college, and others added to the Gold Star collection in the library.

Le Cercle Français

President, HELEN O'CONNOR

Vice-President, ALICE FRAYER

Secretary, ELEANOR FEERICK

Treasurer, JANET BROWN

Faculty Adviser, M. ROBERTA MILLER

LE CERCLE FRANÇAIS this year has presented an endless aggregation of worthwhile programs. Enactment of French plays, readings, French games and songs, and movies showing famous scenes in historic France all helped to give a decided Parisian atmosphere to the meetings. To climax the year's work the club invited all other clubs and French students to an open meeting to hear Professor André Morize, head of the French Department at Harvard University, speak on "Across the Ocean Since the Days of Lafayette." His interesting talk on the comparatively unknown life of the Marquis de Lafayette was unusually worthwhile and was received with great enthusiasm.

German Club

President, CHARLOTTE PAUL

Vice-President, HERBERT YANCO

Secretary, ELIZABETH STONE

Treasurer, BARBARA STIMPSON

THE German Club began the second year of interesting programs with an illustrated review by Mr. Green of his experiences in Germany. Mr. Hartwell, adviser of the club, entertained the members at a later meeting with tales of European countries. At another session, colored slides of quaint German cities were shown to the group by Miss Nute. Cora Perry, a member of the club, gave an educational talk on German architecture and dancing. The club attended open meetings of the Aviation, French, and Drama Clubs.

Drama Club

President, NORMAN DUPEE

Vice-President, GEORGE COLLINS

Secretary, LUCILLE HOLMES

Treasurer, WILLIAM FISH

Faculty Adviser, LOUISE WETHERBEE

THE Drama Club has just completed its tenth year. The most outstanding accomplishment was the production of Antony Kelly's play, "Three Faces East," a drama dealing with the English and German secret services during the World War.

Many varied programs were presented at the monthly meetings. "The Lost Elevator," a humorous one-act play, was produced for the November meeting. In December, the Drama Club acted as host to all other clubs, presenting "The Dust of the Road," an allegorical one-act play. At the January meeting, Miss Lippincott traced the history of the mask and its place in the drama of today. In March, Mr. Cottrell spoke on drama in England. In April, another one-act play, "The Bishop's Candlesticks," was presented. The May meeting starred an all-girl cast in a rollicking comedy by Christopher Morley, "Rehearsal."

The Social Studies Club

President, JOHN BUTTERWORTH

Vice-President, HARRY BURBANK

Secretary, DAVID CHAPMAN

Treasurer, ELLIOT WELLINGTON

Faculty Adviser, HORACE KIDGER

THE object of this club is to stimulate interest in social studies and civic affairs. To carry out the objective these prominent speakers were secured: Mr. Herbert McGill of the McGill Commodity Service and General Needham of the State Police Department. The February meeting featured moving pictures concerning Lincoln's life and presidential administration. The club has presented many worthwhile books to the school.

Alpha Gamma Tau

President, JULIUS KOVITZ

Vice-President, ROBERT BENNETT

Secretary, MARION SALTA

Treasurer, NORMAN DUPEE

Faculty Adviser, MADELINE BRACKETT

THE mathematics club for Juniors and Seniors, Alpha Gamma Tau, began in October, under the direction of Miss Madeline Brackett. At the November meeting the members were entertained by a student speaker on "Figures in the Human Face," and in January they tossed pennies in order to determine the probability curve. In December they were guests at the Drama Club's Christmas play; and in February, at the invitation of the French Club, they were given the opportunity of hearing a lecture by Professor Morize. Two of the most outstanding events of the year were a play, "Falling in Love with Plane Geometry" and a movie of the Einstein Theory.

Camera Club

President, GERALD BENNETT

Vice-President, EARLE TILTON

Secretary, ALBERTA MCDOWELL

Treasurer, FRANK LEIGHTON

THE Camera Club celebrates its fifth year under the leadership of Mr. Sterling Williams, faculty adviser. The monthly meetings of the club this year have been unusually successful in their presentation of speakers, discussions, and activities. The November, February, and March meetings were outstanding examples of the year's work. Two members, Gerald Bennett and Andrew Wales, took charge of the November meeting, presenting the various types of cameras, explaining their mechanisms and uses. In February the speaker was Mr. Chase of Waltham, who showed moving pictures of his developing plant and presented the advantages of the supersensitive film. At the March meeting, Mr. George Wallace of Boston, an expert in colored photography, showed still pictures of birds, animals, flowers, and sunsets taken by himself and done in natural colors. The monthly snapshot contests have been entered with keen enthusiasm. Some of the subjects chosen by the club for these contests are: fall sports, snow scenes, miscellaneous and group pictures. As an act of service, one hundred and ten books were collected and sent to Berea College in the Kentucky mountains.

The Boys' Debating Club

President, GERALD HAGERTY

Secretary, WILLIAM SPURRIER

Vice-President, RICHARD BOWMAN

Treasurer, GEORGE COLLINS

DURING the third year of its existence, the Boys' Debating Club has held many animated and varied debates. These have been on the following subjects: Resolved, that All Competitive Marks Should Be Abolished in Newton High School; That War Is Inevitable; That the Woman's Place Is in the Home; That a National Police System Should Be Established. Perhaps the most outstanding event in the organization's program was the Inter-Club debate with the girls' society. The subject was: Resolved, That Women Should Have Equal Rights With Men. The negative side, supported by the boys, was declared the winner. After this appetizer the members are eager to challenge some of the Greater Boston schools to an inter-scholastic debate.

The Girls' Debating Club

President, MARJORIE PHELON

Vice-President, ALICE MANSFIELD

Secretary, JEANNETTE WALLACE

Treasurer, LUCILLE HOLMES

THE Girls' Debating Club, newly organized last year, started its first active work in the fall, under the direction of Miss Gertrude Robinson.

Special attention has been given this year to the form of debates, using model ones for discussion. At one meeting the Sophomores conducted a debate. In April there was an inter-club debate with the girls upholding the affirmative side of Resolved: That Women Shall Have Equal Rights With Men. The negative won the debate. This club, although fairly new, has done much toward teaching the girls the essentials of debating.

The Aviation Club

President, MARY TULLER
Secretary, PEGGY MANSFIELD

Treasurer, HARRIET CHAPIN
Adviser, DANIEL P. A. WILLARD

THE Aviation Club has completed another year of varied and worthwhile projects. On the Saturday following the monthly meetings flights were made to furnish the members with first-hand information on aviation. More than two hundred flights were made by club members. Groups flew from Skyways, Dennison, Boston-Metropolitan, and East Boston Airports. Members of the faculty and of the student body were flight guests on several occasions.

Visits were made to the Naval Base at Squantum, the Army Base at the Boston Airport, United States Weather Observatory, Skyways Repair Laboratory, and the M. I. T. Weather Station.

The speakers were all leaders in their fields: Mrs. Theodore Kenyon, Champion Sportswoman Pilot; Lieutenant Henry Harris, High Altitude Weather Expert; Mr. George Mason, Aviation Editor, Boston Evening Transcript; Mr. Arthur Hildreth, Meteorology; Captain G. Bancroft Hall, Aviation Training; Miss Katherine Curtis, Boston-New York Flight; Mr. John Polando, Trans-Atlantic Flying — New York to Istanbul; Pilot John Shobe, Commercial Flying.

Excellent motion pictures shown included Transcontinental Flying, Weather Observation, Glider Training, Commercial Flying, and "Fly American" first sound picture at Newton High School.

N-E-W-T-O-N was painted on the gymnasium roof in letters twenty-five feet high and twenty feet wide. An arrow one hundred feet long points East-Northeast to Boston Airport.

Varsity Glee Club

Faculty Adviser, CHARLES B. HARRINGTON

THIS year the Glee Club membership swelled to ninety pupils who gathered in Room 2200 each Wednesday afternoon. The club made its usual public appearance before the Christmas assembly, dividing into groups afterward to sing carols in the three buildings. As in former years, the Glee Club participated in the outdoor concert in June.

BAND

ORCHESTRA

The Library Club

President, ESTHER MERCHANT
Vice-President, DEBORAH WING

Secretary, RUTH STEPHENSON
Treasurer, DEBORAH YORK

Adviser, GLADYS M. BIGELOW

THE Library Club is a service club, its members assisting Miss Bigelow, the librarian. At the November meeting, the newly elected members were initiated. In addition to the regular library work, the girls arranged for use the exhibition room on the fourth floor of building one. In December the club was a guest of the Drama Club at the Christmas Play. The club has given six books to the library.

The Commercial Club

President, JULIA ANGINO

Vice-President, MARGUERITE ROBERTSON

Adviser, GLADYS CUNNINGHAM

Secretary, CHARLOTTE BARRETT

Treasurer, ETHEL BOYD

THE Commercial Club, under the faculty supervision of Miss Cunningham, offers valuable opportunities to all pupils in the business divisions to become acquainted with the demands and standards set by the modern business world.

This year, field trips to the Herald-Traveler and the John Hancock Life Insurance Company have established worthwhile contacts. Interesting lectures, given by representative people, on "Personal Appearance," "California," and "The Value of Money" have been helpful.

The Home Economics Club

President, VIRGINIA SMITH

Vice-President, VERONICA LOPAS

Advisers, GLADYS F. DAVIS, ALICE A. ALDEN

Secretary, JANE ALLEY

Treasurer, CATHERINE WORDEN

THE Home Economics Club, under the faculty supervision of Miss Alden and Miss Davis, is open to all girls taking Home Economic subjects and receiving satisfactory marks. It is a service club and is most active in assisting at various public occasions during the school year.

Besides many interesting speakers a joint meeting was held with the Home Economics Club from Brighton High School. Field trips and exhibitions of various kinds pertaining to Home Economics work were part of the educational program scheduled for the year. The club finished the year with a picnic.

The Girls' Outing Club

President, ESTELLE SMITH

Vice-President, BARBARA WOLLEY

Secretary, JANE HUNTING

Treasurer, MARTHA CONDIT

Adviser, ELNA PETERSON

UNDER the faculty supervision of Miss Peterson, the Girls' Outing Club was organized for the purpose of promoting good health, offering an opportunity of leadership through club projects, and affording every member enjoyable times.

The meetings featured a talk by Mary Waldron on her trips to Mt. Washington, movies of swimming and tennis, an illustrated talk on sports by Wilma Danforth, and a demonstration talk on tennis by the national star, Sarah Palfrey. Some of the excursions taken by the club included a bicycle trip to Dover, climbing Nobscot Mountain, and winter sports at the Appalachian Mountain Club in the Blue Hills. At one of the regular assemblies, Mrs. Robert Underhill spoke and showed slides on rock and ice climbing.

Alpha Beta

President, JOHN TOMB

Vice-President, ELIZABETH TOBEY

Secretary, CLARA SCHWAB

Treasurer, THOMAS SCOTT

THE Alpha Beta Club for sophomores, corresponding to the English Club of the upper classmen, has successfully completed the year of 1933-34 under the supervision of Miss Frances Thumim, faculty adviser.

In the beginning of the year, Mr. Green gave an illustrated talk about his European trip. At a later meeting Mr. Cottrell was the speaker, telling of various experiences in England and America. Later in the year a one-act play entitled "My Lady's Lace" was presented by the members of the club. The yearly project was the supervision of the Sophomore Prize-Speaking Contest, which was efficiently managed by the members.

Neophytes

President, ALBERT THOMAS

Vice-President, ELIZABETH TOBEY

Secretary, SALLY ROE

Treasurer, FAYE SMILLIE

THE Neophytes is the Sophomore Dramatic Club under the supervision of Miss Jessie Southard. The programs of the club consisted of one-act plays presented at the regular meetings. "Two Crooks and a Lady," "The Florist Shop," and "My Lady's Lace" were given before the club. Noel G. Cottrell and Dan L. Smith were guest speakers during the year.

Following their usual custom the Neophytes sponsored the May assembly when they presented "Grandma Pulls the String." They also took part in the Washington's Birthday program.

Stage Committee

THE stage committee is a group of students who assist in the arrangement of scenery and lighting for all student theatrical performances. Through their co-operation these productions are made possible. The group is under the supervision of Mr. Charles Peterson.

TRAFFIC SQUAD

LUNCHROOM SQUAD

"Three Faces East"

"THREE Faces East," by Anthony Kelly, was presented by the Drama Club on March 9 and 10. This play is a drama of the English and German secret service departments during the World War. Its marked success added another to the long list of triumphs coached by Miss Wetherbee.

With a thrilling air raid in the second act and a dramatic finale, this production achieved at Newton the popularity it enjoyed on Broadway, where it played for over two years. Alice Mansfield, portrayed Hélène, supposedly a German spy, until in the third act she effected the exposure and capture of Valdar (Clarke Case), a Belgian butler who turned out to be the brain of the German spy service. William L. Smith, as Yeats, the clever head of the English Intelligence Department, acted his part admirably, as did George Collins, Helen O'Connor, Ned Dupee, Eleanor Collins, Vaughn Shedd, Virginia Thomas, and James Naylor.

Radio Club

President, JOHN HARVEY

Secretary, STUART STEARNS

Treasurer, DONALD SEELY

THE radio club was chartered this year, and has been enthusiastically endorsed by the students. Mr. Richard Boyer, faculty adviser of the club, gave a talk at the beginning of the year explaining the technicalities of short and long wave lengths. The climax of the year's program was the address by a representative of the Raytheon Tube Co. The organization looks back upon a successful debut.

The English Club Play

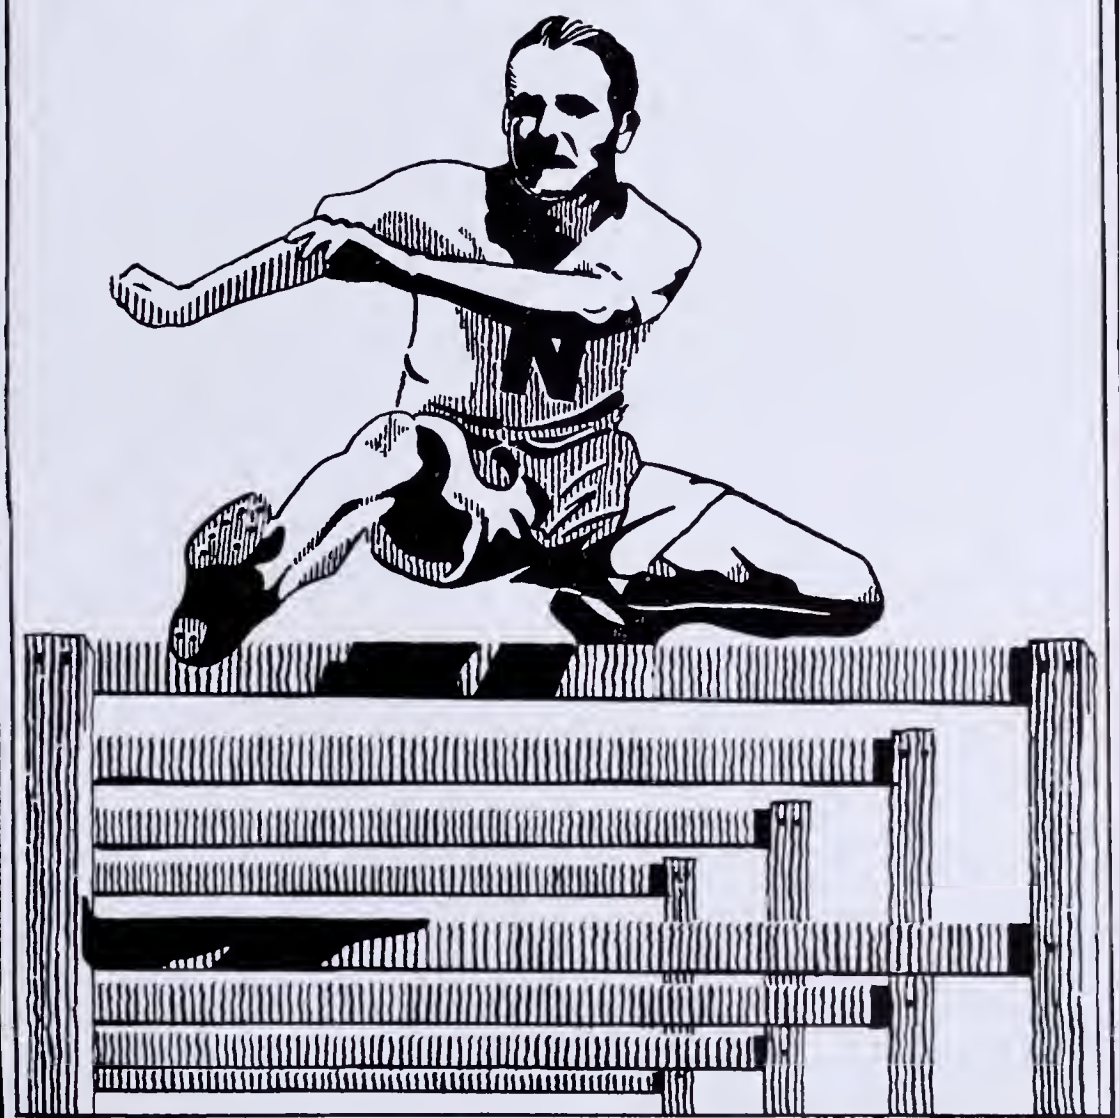

A CLEVER one-act play, "Ghost Story," was presented by the English Club at their annual Prize-Speaking Contest. The bashful swain was portrayed by Eduard Ulrich, with Agatha Pickhardt playing the charming heroine. The play was coached by Marjorie Clapp and Miss Louise Wetherbee.

The Post-Graduate Class

THE post-graduate class is made up of thirty-five students who have already graduated either from Newton High or from some other high school. For the most part they have taken the extra year to obtain sufficient units for entering some higher institution of learning. With the exception of the cricket team no sports or other school activities are open to the members of this class, although they are always loyal supporters of school functions. Special praise should be given to Miss Leathers, class adviser, for her sincere interest and unfailing co-operation.

ATHLETICS

VIOLE HUNTON

Football

SEVERAL lettermen of last year returned to give the 1933 team a good nucleus. Mr. Sanborn molded a fine team, which won seven out of ten games on an exceptionally hard schedule. Newton came out on top of the Suburban League, winning from Cambridge Latin, Rindge, and Brookline. The season started poorly with the eleven losing to the Arlington aggregation 6-0; but regaining its stride, it swept through the last games. The second game with a mediocre Cantab team was won 15-0. Next a fiery Watertown team was downed by a 19-7 score. An exceptionally strong Everett group beat the plucky Newton squad 15-0. Newton played much better than the score indicated in the rugged Brockton game, losing 14-0. The mid-season spurt began when a slow Quincy team was defeated 18-0. After the varsity held during the first and third periods against a strong wind, the speedy "pony backfield" carried the ball over for a winning touchdown, to win from Rindge 6-0. We defeated a strong Waltham group 6-0, as Flagg played his best game to score the winning touchdown against our neighboring rivals. The final game with Brookline was won by a score of 13-0 for Newton.

Beside the varsity squad, coached by Mr. Sanborn, there are three other squads which furnish excellent material. The Intermediates coached by Mr. Jones, the Junior Varsity by Mr. Willard and Mr. Ferguson where all Newton High School players begin the football careers.

The following members of the Varsity squad received letters: John Balkus, James Byrne, Augustus Castoldi, Frank Feola, Bert Finberg, Charles Flagg, Claude Frazier, Benjamin Grow, Kenneth Halliday, Richard Howe, Theodore Johnson, Francis Joyce, John Kulesza, Charles Mascia, Frank McCarthy, Louis Miller, Samuel Miller, Walter Rich, Jonathan Roehrig, Bernard Ryan, Sanderson Sloane, George Steers, Melvin Swig, Captain Charles Thompson, Paul Treannie, Robert Whitney, and Gale Wisbach. Captain Charley Thompson was chosen center on several of the All-Scholastic elevens, and Gus Castoldi was voted captain of next year's team.

An excellent line is expected to return next September and a good backfield should be formed from the returning lower squads.

Baseball

Captain, CHARLES FLAGG

Coach, LUCIUS JONES

AFTER two years of development under the Jones régime a large group of seasoned minor leaguers reported at the first call for Newton High School baseball. The major leaguers returning were Captain Flagg, Morrison, Byrne, Waters, and McDermott. Newton impressively defeated its first three opponents, and also gained a victory in a practise game over the Harvard Junior Varsity.

Newton officially opened the schedule by a decisive 8-0 victory over the High School of Commerce. This was followed by a thrilling 2 to 1 pitchers' battle at Cambridge featuring Joe Greene's box work and timely hitting. After the smoke had cleared away from an exciting Framingham contest, the scoreboard disclosed a victory for Newton, 13-9. The outstanding offensive feature was the heavy hitting of Waters and Mascia.

The regular pitchers on the varsity squad were Greene and Ryan, with Bergen, Hennessy, Bosworth, and Dickinson as relief hurlers. The infield was composed of Byrne, Spillman, Captain Flagg, and Waters, while McDermott, Mascia, and Bosworth roam the outfield. Johnson and Lamphere were the utility players. The catching was ably taken care of by Morrison with Baker as his understudy.

Bosworth, Morrison, Byrne, and Spillman will be the only veterans next year, but they will undoubtedly form a strong nucleus for another good ball club.

The minor league veterans, also enjoyed a successful season under the tutelage of Mr. Willard, Mr. Sanborn, and Mr. Ferguson.

Hockey

THE schools in the Greater Boston Hockey League received a surprise when Newton ended in strong second place. At the start of the season the team had only one letterman, namely, Captain Ted Johnson, who was later chosen for the Greater Boston All-Scholastic team. "Doc" Martin, overcoming all these difficulties, formed a team that lost only one league game, and that to the winners, Cambridge Latin, by a score of 1-0. The lead-off game with Arlington, a tie of 4-4, indicated Newton's progress. The next was the best game that Newton played when the team came up against a strong Melrose sextet and upset them to the tune of 2-1. Stoneham was beaten 3-2, and the next Saturday we easily subdued Belmont by a 4-0 score. Friday night, January 26, the Orange and Black contended with the best Cantab team in years and was beaten 1-0. We defeated Medford by 1-0, and ended the league season by trouncing Rindge Tech 4-0. A post season game with the Harvard Freshman ended with an impressive score against Newton.

These nine games were all played in the Boston Garden. Luckily this year, ice was plentiful, so a good amount of outdoor practise was obtained. Several scrimmages were held at Bullough's Pond with Wellesley, Watertown, and Waltham of the Bay State League.

The lettermen this year were Augustus Castoldi, Thomas Griffin, Joseph Green, Maurice Hallett, Tom Hennessey, Captain Theodore Johnson, Ernest McLeod, John Waters, and Burt Woodward; Murray Beth also received a letter for a good job as manager. At a meeting of the lettermen "Gus" Castoldi was elected captain of the 1935 team.

There should be an excellent team next year, for there is a good Intermediate squad from which to choose. Of this year's group Castoldi, Woodward, Butterfield, and Dennison are returning.

Basketball

Captain, CHARLES FLAGG

Manager, PHILLIP FARINA

Coach, FRANK SIMMONS

THE 1934 varsity basketball team maintained the ever-increasing favor which this sport has gained, by compiling a record of nine victories and five losses. Although winning but one league contest and dropping two keenly fought Brookline games, Newton had the satisfaction of handing Natick High its only two defeats of the season: 30-27 and 30-26. Double victories were also scored over Watertown and Westboro; while Milton Academy, Lexington, and Cambridge Latin were conquered in single contests.

Captain Flagg and Frazier, the only available lettermen, combined with Spilman and Smith to provide the major part of the team's offense. As a whole, the Orange and Black scored 383 points as against their opponent's 299. Captain elect Donovan, Byrnes, and Skauen were outstanding on defense and were mainly instrumental in holding the opponents to an average of slightly more than twenty points per game.

At the close of the season Captain Flagg, although relinquishing scoring honors, was selected as All-Surburban forward. Frazier, the team's leading scorer, and Donovan received All-League mention.

The lettermen were Baker, Byrne, Captain-elect Donovan, Captain Flagg, Frazier, Gath, Kuleza, Lochiatto, Nokhoudian, Shedd, Skauen, Smith, Spilman, and Manager Farina.

Indoor Track

Captain, LOUIS MILLER

Coach, DONALD ENOCH

DESPITE a record of three losses and but one victory in dual meets, the 1934 indoor track team finished the season successfully by placing fifth in the State Meet ahead of its rivals, Brookline and Lawrence.

In the initial meet, Newton was defeated by Lawrence 48½–28½ at the Andover Cage, and a week later Brockton triumphed 48–26 at Newton. However, the Orange and Black upset Watertown 47–30, mainly through superior work in the field events, dash, and relay. The objective meet of the year at Brookline was lost by a 43½–33½ margin, although Freeman, Fitzgerald, and the relay quartet composed of Wittens, Griffin, Miller, and Quigley showed to advantage in a losing cause. Plotkin and Rogers combined for 26½ Brookline points, which was almost sufficient in itself to win.

At the Northeastern Interscholastics, Freeman captured second in the 600-yard run, to give Newton a place in the scoring column; while in the B. A. A. meet, the relay team conquered Brookline, although failing to place. At the Andover Interscholastics, Hale scored in the broad jump, and the relay quartet again more than acquitted itself by garnering one and one-half points in its events. At the Boston Garden State Classic, Freeman and Fitzgerald broke records in the distance runs, only to place second to other record breakers. The Orange and Black relay team once more came in ahead of Brookline's quartet to capture three additional points which, with Quigley's market in the dash, gave Newton a total of ten points and fifth place, just ahead of Brookline.

The lettermen were Charlesworth, Connelly, Feola, Fitzgerald, Freeman, Griffin, Hale, Johnson, Kiely, McLean, Captain Miller, Moore, Quigley, Sloane, Swig, and Wittens.

Outdoor Track

Captain, ROBERT QUIGLEY

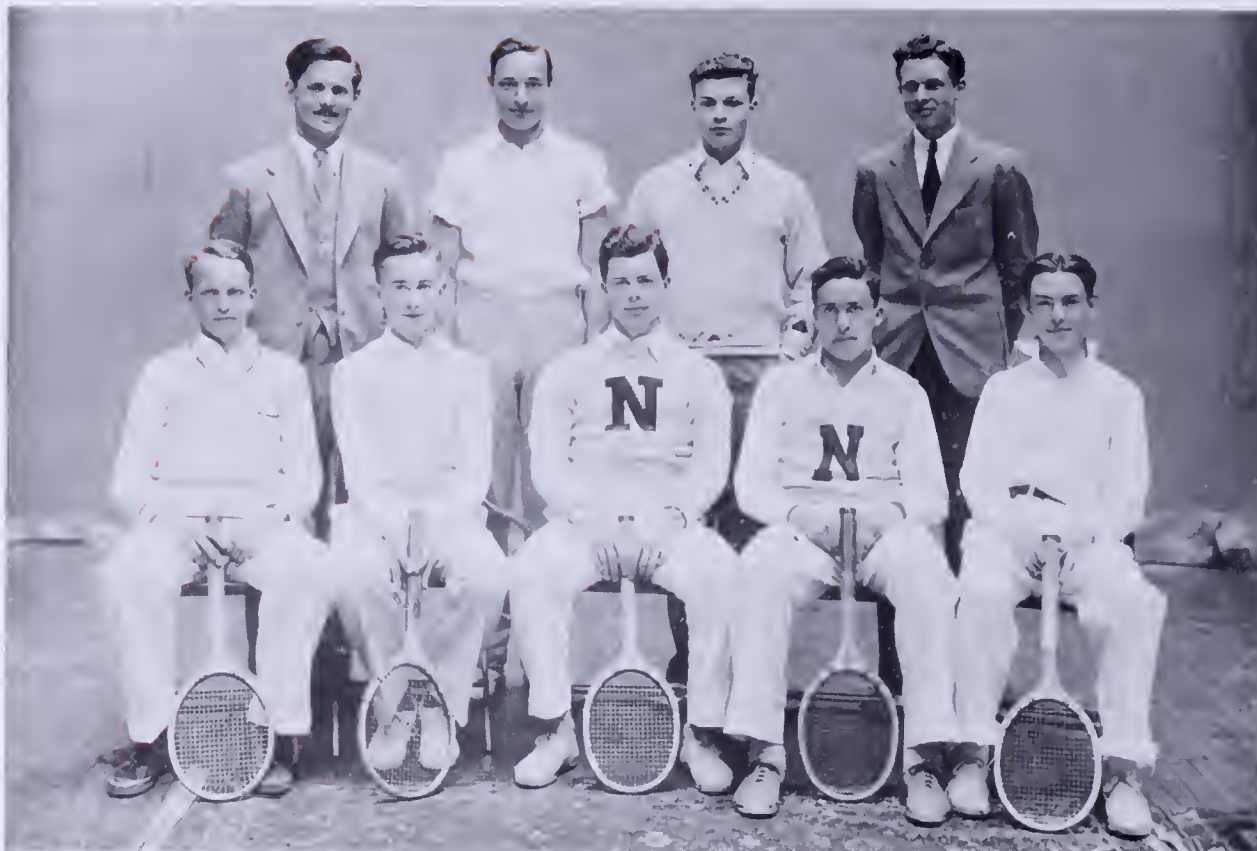

Manager, MAURICE WHITE

Coach, DONALD G. ENOCH

COACH Enoch's 1934 outdoor track team was built around the following veterans: Tom Fitzgerald in the mile, Al Freeman in the 880 and 440, Louis Miller in the 440, Johnny Frazier and Russ Liscomb in the hurdles, and Bob Quigley in the dash. Other outstanding prospects were Finberg in the discus, Wittens in the hurdles, Moore and Griffin in the dashes, and McLean and Blair in the high jump.

In the initial meet, The Worcester Tech Interscholastics, the Orange and Black forces placed fourth with a total of nineteen points. Al Freeman, who placed second in the 440 and third in the half mile, was the only man to score in two events. The remainder of Newton's points were scored by Liscomb's and Quigley's seconds in the 220-yard high hurdles and the dash, respectively, Fitzgerald's third in the mile, and Witten's third in the 220-yard low hurdles. Finberg, who hurled the discus to second place, was the only Newton man to score in the field events.

Other meets were the Brookline, Harvard and Amherst Interscholastics, and the State Relays at Fitchburg.

Tennis

Captain, WILL SPURRIER

Manager, ALBERT BLUNT

Coach, WALTER M. TAYLOR

COACH Taylor's varsity tennis team, led by Captain Will Spurrier, got away to a slow start, suffering defeats from the hands of Milton Academy and Nashua in the first two games. The Orange and Black team was downed in the former match by the score of 9 to 1, Tom Slattery turning in the only Newton Victory. Newton made a better showing against Nashua, but came in the short end of the 5 to 2 score. Geary and Bachrach were the only Newton victors in this match. The Orange and Black found their winning stride against Attleboro, when they nosed them out to the tune of five to four. The following week Newton downed Winchester but took an expected defeat from the hands of a very strong Exeter team.

The bumper list has been headed by Leo Geary, Link Merrill, Will Spurrier, Vic Haven, Clayt Mosher, and Tom Slattery.

The second team, led by Micheak, Chase, and Volpe, has played fine tennis. They were defeated by Milton, 7 to 2, but came back to take Watertown, 4 to 3, and swamp Needham, 6 to 1.

Golf

Coach, THOMAS G. WALTERS

AFTER a rather slow start Newton's golf team under the generalship of Coach Walters has made steady progress and has caused trouble for many opposing teams. For the first time Newton is a member of the Greater Boston Interschool Golf League, composed of Waltham, Brookline, Lexington, Arlington and others, who afford excellent competition for the team.

On their first outing the team was nosed out by Waltham 5 to 4, but a week later the boys came back with a fine exhibition to defeat Brookline $5\frac{1}{2}$ to $3\frac{1}{2}$. The Newton golfers were: Charles Wasilevski, Albert d'Ercole, Barker Nokhoudian, William Herlihy, David Farnum, Kenneth Crafts, and William Ward. Costello, Crafts, and Herlihy will be a fine nucleus for next year's group.

The golf team is indebted to the Braeburn, Woodland, Albemarle and Commonwealth Country Clubs for the generous use of their courses. This privilege will undoubtedly be granted in the coming years, which are sure to bring the championship to Newton.

Field Hockey

Coach, LUCILLE BURNHAM

Captain, BARBARA MILDRAH

Manager, MARTHA CONDIT

FROM one hundred and twenty-three girls who reported for field hockey under the excellent coaching of Miss Lucille Burnham, twenty-six were selected to represent Newton in outside games. Thirteen of the squad were members of last year's team, three of whom were regular first-string players. The intra-mural games were won by a junior team captained by Joyce Wheeler.

Of the five games on this year's varsity schedule, two were won, two were tied, and one lost. The first game, played at Needham, resulted in a single point victory for the varsity and a defeat for the second team. Waltham stubbornly held the Varsity to a scoreless tie, while the visiting second team bowed to the Newton reserves, 3-0. The Orange and Black first eleven met their only defeat of the season against the skilful Watertown players by a lone goal, as the seconds struggled to a scoreless tie. At Brookline, the Newton reserves met with success by a margin of one point, and the varsity game resulted in a tie. The season ended in a decisive victory over the alumni.

Girls' Basketball

Captain, BARBARA WOLLEY

Manager, ESTELLE SMITH

Coach, ELNA PETERSON

A NEW system was inaugurated this year in the girls' intra-mural competition. Teams were formed by home-rooms, room 138 capturing the sophomore laurels, 2105 for the juniors, and the 333-338 combination for the seniors. Room 2105 was the final victor, defeating their sophomore and senior opponents. The members of this team received numerals.

After the selection of the class teams in February, Raymonde Harvey, Jane Hesslein, and Harriet Chapin were elected captains of their respective groups. The first game of the season, with Cambridge Latin, resulted in a defeat for the sophomores, and victories for the junior and senior teams. At Needham the sophomores again suffered defeat, 25-18, while the juniors repeated their brilliant performance of the Cambridge game in taking Needham, 20-9. The Newton seniors were forced to accept their first loss by a three-point margin, 28-25. The game at Waltham allowed the juniors to keep their slate unmarred as they trounced the respective Watch City sextet, 44-10. The seniors likewise joined the victorious class in winning from Waltham, 18-14. The last contests of the season, against Watertown, proved a Waterloo for all three Orange and Black teams, the juniors receiving their first set-back.

The varsity proved successful in the games against the alumni and the faculty, beating the former, 37-24, and the latter, 31-20. The girls receiving varsity N's are as follows: Barbara Wolley, captain; Mae McGrath, Leslie Wead, Jane Arend, Regina Herlihy, Rejane Harvey, and Joyce Wheeler. Jean Harvey, Estelle Smith, and Margaret Walden received chevrons for second year's service on the varsity.

Girls' Tennis

Captain, CAROLINE EVERTS

Coach, MISS MAIDA FLANDERS

TENNIS, as usual, was a popular sport among the girls. According to custom, there were the Fall and Spring Tournaments, open to all interested, when excellent material for a team was discovered. By an exciting match, Elena Ciccone was victorious over Lillian Mancini, to capture the title.

Miss Flanders, the coach, selected seven girls from a larger squad to constitute the school team; these were, at the beginning, Elena Ciccone, Caroline Everts, Lillian Mancini, Florence Green, Minnie Spiers, Esther Merchant, and Lena Curtin. Matches were planned with the school teams from Medford, Watertown, Brookline, and Winchester.

Last Will and Testament of the Class of 1934

WE, the renowned class of 1934, realizing that we are about to pass in or out, into the Great Beyond, being sound in mind and body, mindful of the poor and needy, and richly endowed for this great purpose, do hereby make and ordain this to be our last will and testament. Whereas, the class of 1934, with 'umble respect, bequeaths to our beloved faculty the profound knowledge derived from said body's experience with us. Whereas, the party of the first part does also bequeath to the party of the second part, the city of Newton, and other such individuals as will be determined by our lawful executor, in sickness and in health, for better or for worse, to have and to hold, viz., etc., to wit, et al. —

Our first week's salary check to the janitors.

Our first five college degrees to the faculty.

The grass wires and stakes to the receivers to trip over.

To The Newtonite:

Max Bachrach's executive ability.

Jean Harvey's big news scoops to her younger sisters.

Hugh Kennison's sparkling and revealing editorials.

Vaughn Shedd's scintillating sport column.

To The Newtonian:

Twenty-five years of experience.

To the Class of 1935:

Martha Silveira's "A's".

Charlotte Paul's Efficiency plus ———.

Bill Spurrier's tennis racket (?) (needful of restringing).

Jimmie Naylor's "flawless" Latin translations to the "amiable Doctor."

Charley Flagg's athletic prowess to F. Ewing Wilson.

Alan Steeve's stride to Doc Richmond.

Miss Burdon's "meaty" tests to Clark Case.

Margaret Walden's ping-pong table to Mr. Simmons.

Lloyd Bergeson's managerial powers to Doc Martin.

Charlie Rosenthal's stoicism to Mr. Holmes.

Marion Salter's aptitude in French to Miss Myles.

Bob Sproat's philosophy to Mike Lyons.

The scoreboard to Mr. Mergendahl.

To Whom It May Concern:

Miss Carleton's dazzling speed behind the wheel.

Ned Dupee's ears.

Ben Mann's haircut.

Alice Mansfield's histrionic ability.

Steve Holmes's wind.

Janet Cryan's cosmetics.

Tom Fitzgerald's puny puns.

Dot Jones's vivacity.

Babe Joyce's model T.

Norman Foster's flying fingers.

Jim Hunter's "mighty fine garments."

John Smillie's stentorian bass voice.

Whereas, after profuse considerations, we hereby appoint our very dear principal, Paul E. Elicker, as our sole and most worthy executor of this our last will and testament. Given on this day, April first in the year of our Lord nineteen hundred and thirty-four. Blessings on the class of nineteen hundred and thirty-four.

WILLIAM SPURRIER, Scribe.

What Next?

WITH a whirl and a putt, the autogyro jerks to a halt on the roof of the "What Next" skyscraper. Pilot (Teddy) Johnson assists us in propelling our stiffish joints to the park. Where, in the midst of fruit trees and raspberry bushes, we recognize Howard Brightman, with his perpetual soap box, orating to a mob of frenzied followers! Our dragging feet stray to the adjoining playground, which is lovingly exhibited by caretaker "Mash" Mascia (who'd a thunk it?) . . . In the distance is a figure poised for action and silhouetted against the skyscraper peaks. Can that be Esther Merchant as a tennis instructor? And what's more, there's Bobbie Wolley also sporting a gym teacher's outfit. . . . Down into the depths of the locker rooms we plunge, where Charlie Flagg is still filling the role of locker-room crooner de-luxe. And incidentally, that's Charlie Thompson appearing with his medical kit . . . now to the swimming pool with Agatha Pickhardt practicing her renowned racing strokes and Brenton Bullock, at the kiddies end, sailing his miniature fleet. Ah for a little refreshment! And accordingly, singing soda-jerker, Tom Fitzgerald, and Gage Olcott, his engaging assistant, rastle up old time Brigham's products. . . . For the convenience of such sightseers as we are, there is a television office, so that one may see the whole city-like building from a cushioned easy-chair. To that comfortable corner we stroll, and are taken under the wing of Maurice Hallett, who proceeds to exhibit the glories of "What Next". First, we are switched to the studios of "Max" Bachrach who is now photographing Barbara McKissock, Johnny Frazier, and Bill Smith for an ad for "ashless" cigarettes. Such lookers . . . Now who should flash on the screen, as he travels from door to door, but Jonathan "Raremeat" Roehrig as he deftly sells his patented "Hold-All, Lose-None" pincushions. While we watch his successful progress down the corridors, our attention is arrested by Betty Bunker's striking posters, featuring Charlotte Paul in an exotic advertisement for her Interpretive Dancing Classes. And what ho! there's an announcement of the personal appearance of Alice Mansfield, the world's second Ethel Barrymore, at the famous "What Next" Theatre next week. Let's go! Eh, Fans? As Johnny knocks on another door, what should the interior reveal but two married couples — Tolman vs. Railsback, and Rowell vs. Taylor — un placidly playing bridge. "Too boring a pastime!" shrieks vivacious Barbara, and away they tear to the "What Next" Night Club, where the chawming hostess, Connie Wood, leads them to a table near the blue-lighted stage. Up on the platform, the satin-clad "twins," Barbara Cutting and Louise McKinney, are undulating as a background for Eddie Ulrich's hot clarinet number. Over in the other corner looms a silver and blue bar, with Barbie Anderson, Bette Everett, and Dinkie Blake as bar maids. Can that be Archie Gath tapping beer barrels? A gallant head-waiter, John Smillie, serves the couples with "What Next's" unique concoction . . . and leaving them thus we are flashed to a pretentious office. It seems that Jane Kirby, Will Spurrier, and Joe Green have had something in common since high school days. Now they are the heads of a nation-wide organization, the name of which they refuse to reveal (but we know ginger ale helps) . . . Now nothing but smoke appears upon the screen, but after awhile we can distinguish Bill Fish exhaling black cigar smoke, while the barber, Louis Miller, cuts his big fuzzy beard. In the next chair: Harry Burbank having a finger wave put in his gawgeous hair by demure Midge Collins. . . . Well, well, what is this mirage? Telltale signs proclaim it to be Janet Brown's Dog Farm. There she is exhibiting some trained puppies to D. York Jones's delighted children. This building "What Next" certainly has everything! . . . The next scene shows a modernistic court room, Midge Phelon as Clerk, and a heated debate ensuing twixt Jean Harvey and Jimmy Naylor. (Gracious — such big words!) But still more amazing is the fact that on further scrutiny of the judge, we find Debby Wing — shows what wimmin' can do. Rumor hath it that there is a jail with a most unique keeper. Sure 'nough, it's Dotty Jones (!) swinging a fist full of keys, and going the rounds of the prisoners, who committed petty offences to be under Dotty's careful supervision. Here and there, we notice fragments of Tom Anderson's and Bob Adams's orchestras, placed in the Jug for having broken the peace. But now, who should flash on the screen but Louise Kerr placidly chawing gum in the solitude of her cell where she was placed to keep her from scaring the kiddies with that shriek of hers. Down in the boiler room forgetful Kovitz "disremembers" he is the only furnace tender; and the autogyro takes off just in time for us to see Julius flying feet first into the air as the building bursts into flames . . . Tsk-tsk — What next? !

An Algebra Exam

REACHED the room with jaunty air,
Face wreathed in smiles and free from care,
Examples done and answers there.
These are the words that greet my ear,
"A short exam — these questions here."
Blasting my hopes, inciting fear.
At last I settle down to think,
I rack my brain and spill the ink;
The figures dance upon the sheet,
First they advance and then retreat.
The first example I can't do,
So I pass it by and take up two.
I work it through; of course it's long;
I finish it but know it's wrong.
Wildly I hunt for my mistake;
Can't find it, so the next one take.
A problem this — of A and B —
Who many things do foolishly;
Now what shall X here represent?
 A 's miles per hour, or B 's percent?
Or gain that would to C accrue
Had he but done what he didn't do?
So pondering this secret sealed,
My thoughts skim to another field.
"If I can only raise the dough
Tonight I'll take her to the show."
I turn to the forgotten sheet,
And try to make my balance meet
With surplus for each needed seat.
Just then the bell, with ringing crashes,
Cold water on my spirit dashes,
And then I know while yet it clashes
That I have flunked.

"S — Silas! What in tunket's the matter with that young 'un? Here 'tis almost an hour before sunup and thet lad's still snorin' as if he was sawin' two be fours out in the wood shed! I cal'late it's the late hours he's been a keepin'. Why, last night he didn't git ta bed till nigh onto 9.30.

"Yes, Ma, I'm a-coming." Silas rolled out of bed drowsily, but when his feet touched the floor, he came to with surprising speed. Shivering with cold, he ran to the water pitcher, after breaking the ice, washed quickly.

"Hurry, Silas! You ain't got more 'n three hours to get to school, and you oughter know that three miles is a powerful long distance in snow like this. Your vittles have been a-settin' on the table for five minutes."

At the mention of the word "vittles," Silas started down the stairs. Soon he had eaten breakfast, consisting of oatmeal, milk, bacon, eggs, fried potatoes, sausage, apple pie, and cheese.

"Silas, what in tarnation's the matter with you? You h'aint et anything this morning. Now, quit moping and do your chores. You've only got a half-hour, and don't forget to shovel the path.

Perfunctorily, Si performed his numerous duties, and at the first crack of dawn set out for school, carrying three books which he strapped together as a matter of convenience. Drearily he trudged two miles in the drifted snow; then abruptly, acting on the spur of the moment, he turned in at a farmhouse. A bashful little maiden (the cause of his loss of appetite) answered the door. Shyly our hero asked if he might accompany her to school. The coy little girl nodded her head demurely. The two of them, truly symbolic of the Youth of Yesterday (really?), trudged through the snow; he, carrying her books, and she, with her pigtailed flying, her freckled face a healthy glow, ploughed steadfastly along beside him. Love was king. Silas, overcome with the emotion of walking with so dazzling a beauty, stopped a minute to write in the snow, "I love you," and then turned a brick-red because of his audacity. The object of his affection thrilled, but frightened at his sudden show of love, ran the rest of the way to school. Si, his heart pounding like a trip hammer, felt first a wave of heroism and then dejection — utter dejection. Morbidly he trod onward to school only to find that he was late. Life was sordid, until, with a thrill of ecstasy, he found three little words on a slip of paper in his desk, "I love you."

THEM WERE THE GOOD OLD DAYS!

School Days, 1934

"Z-z-z-z-z-z-z"

"Jimmy White, get out of that bed this instant! Do you realize it's 10 minutes of 8? Step on it!"

"Z-z-z-z. Huh? oh, O.K. Ma." So saying, Jim turned over and drowsed ten minutes more. Duly admonished again by his irate parent, he secured with great effort an upright position; then, with many a sigh and yawn, he staggered to the bathroom. After a brisk shower, he was fully awake. From that point on, he became speed and efficiency personified. 8.08, and his breakfast, composed of cereal, orange juice, toast, and egg, had been consumed. Grabbing his books and coat, he ran swiftly, with scarcely more than a hurried good-bye, to the garage where his vehicle, a ramshackle, old, second-hand Ford, was kept. Not being able to start his horseless carriage electrically, he resorted to a manual process of cranking. Three minutes of frenzied physical effort, and the car sprang into life. Our perspiring hero dauntlessly mounted his shell-shocked vehicle, which was shivering with something akin to St. Vitus's dance. Off he went in a cloud of smoke, with only fifteen minutes to get to school. At 8.20 he stopped in front of a small house and tooted his rasping horn long and loudly. A fair damsel appeared, hat askew, hair flying, and mouth a garish red smear of lipstick.

"Yoo-hoo, Jimmee-ee-ee!" she screamed. "Wait a minute. Be right with you."

"O.K., sweet thing, but make it snappy!"

Soon they were en route again. School was reached at 8.28, and the couple went their separate ways, the girl to building one and the boy to building three. Panting heavily when he reached his home room, Jim divested himself of his coat, and fell into his seat at exactly 8.30.

Thus we have a typical Newton High School "smoothie"!

The Song of Instant Postum (Inc.)

In the Prophylactic forest
On the shores of Coca-Cola,
Dwelt the Moxies in their wigwam
Old Sapolio, the Chieftain,
Pebeco, the grizzled prophet,
And the warriors, young and eager.

In the lodge of the old chieftain,
With Uneeda, more than Mother,
And Victrola, old and feeble,
Lived the warmest of the maidens,
Musterole, Sapolio's daughter,
Musterole, the Sunkist Chiclet.

All the young men sought her favor,
Left their trophies at the wig-wam,
Brought her Thermos skin for raiment,
Brought her Tarvia for ointment,
And sweet Musterole smiled upon them,
Smiled on Vaseline and Tintex,
Smiled on Listerine and Valspar,
Smiled, but left them unrequitted,
For her love she gave to no one.

Then from Mulibestos Mountains,
From the height of the Texacos,
Came the young chief, Instant Postum,
Mightiest hunter of the forest,
All superb in strength and beauty,
He it was who trapped the Kodak,
He who shot the great Sears-Roebuck,
Shot him with his swift Pierce-arrow.
Eversharp, his trusty hatchet,
Every arrow-head a Hot-point.

On him gazed the Moxie Maidens
Nujol poured her glorious glances,
Bold Carbona sought to win him,
Lopkis brought him cakes and honey.
But for Musterole yearned Postum,
No Pyrene could quench the ardor
That she kindled in his bosom.

Through the fields of ripe Wheatena,
Through the Shredded Wheat they wandered,
To the White Rock by the river,
By the rippling Cuticura,
There beneath Palm Olive shadows,
There they saw the sun descending.
Naught cared Postum for the night winds
Blowing through the Holeproof forest,
Musterole was there beside him.

To his bosom quick he drew her,
Whispered words of love, a-burning,
Told her how he trapped the Sealpax
Told her how he'd trapped Ampico,
Told her how he'd slain Bull Durham
Boasted of his father's tepee
With its sides of Mentholatum
With its wings of soft Socony.

To him Musterole, a-quiver,
Listened, and her heart gave answer.
All the warmth of love she gave him
All her Rubberset affection,
Gave her heart to Instant Postum —
Thus he wooed her, thus he won her.

Passed the years in quick succession
Small Post Toasties came to bless them —
Triplets, Gold Dust Twins, and BUD,
Little Beechnut, Wrigley Spearmint,
Veci Kid, and Pluto Water,
These and many Little Toasties
Filled the wigwam with their laughter.

Into my brain it will not flit,
And so I never study it.
